Don't Stop Tobacco.
HOW TO CURE YOURSELF WHILE USING IT.
The tobacco habit grows on a man until his nervous system is seriously affected, impairing health, comfort and happiness. To quit suddenly is too severe a shock to the system, as tobacco to an inveterate user becomes a stimulant that his system continually craves. "Baco-Curo" is a scientific cure for the tobacco habit, in all its forms, carefully compounded after the formula of an eminent Berlin physician who has used it in his private practice since 1872, without a failure. It is purely vegetable and guaranteed perfectly harmless. You can use all the tobacco you want while taking "Baco-Curo." It will notify you when to stop. We give a written guarantee to cure permanently any case with three boxes, or refund the money with 10 per cent. interest. "Baco-Curo" is not a substitute, but a scientific cure, that cures without the aid of will, power and with no inconvenience. It leaves the system as pure and free from nicotine as the day you took your first chew or smoke. Cured By Baco-Curo and gained thirty pounds.
From hundreds of testimonials, the originals of which are on file and open to inspection, the following is presented.
Clayton, Nevada, Cal., Jan. 28, '95. Borochemical & Mfg. Co., La. Crosse, Wis.—Gentlemen: For forty years I used tobacco in all its forms. For twenty-five years of that time I was a great sufferer from general debility and heart disease. For fifteen years I tried to quit, but couldn't. I took various remedies, among others "No-To-Bac." The Indian Tobacco Antidote, Double Chloride of Gold, etc., etc., but none of them did me the least bit of good. Finally, however, I purchased a box of your "Baco-Curo" and it has entirely cured me of the habit in all its forms, and I have increased thirty pounds in weight and am relieved from all the numerous aches and pains of body and mind. I could write a quire of paper upon my changed feelings and conditions. Yours respectfully, P. H. MARRIOTT.

brunettes, but never was there a greater mistake, for blondes look equally well in that color. These heavy silks used to be considered suitable only for evening wear, but we have now no fixed laws for material or coloring for different occasions. Gray is lovely in point of color, and a robin's-egg blue is the softest and most delicate thing imaginable. Lace, embroideries, mouline de soie, and shiffon all combine satisfactorily with these heavy silks, but black lace unless for older women, should never be chosen to trim them, although there are many gowns that have been lately made up that have fine black lace on the solid colors. White against the soft shading is usually becoming and gray made up with white and touches of yellow gives a beautiful picturesque effect. [From Harper's Bazar.

To be Married June 25.
Lexington, Ky., June 5.—The engagement of Dr. F. O. Young and Miss Effie Hill, of this city, was announced to day. Miss Hill is one of the most beautiful young women in the Bluegrass region. She is the daughter of Ex-Adj. Gen. Samuel E. Hill, who came to this city a few years ago from Hartford, Ky. Dr. Young is President of the Lexington Board of Health, and is one of the best known physicians in the State. He is a brother to Lieut. Lucien Young, of the United States Navy. On account of the illness of Dr. Young's mother the wedding, which is to take place June 25, will be a quiet one at the home of the bride's parents.

This testimonial is unsolicited and for the benefit of humanity. My daughter has been subject to severe colds and croup and often taken with violent coughing spells at night. Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey is the only preparation I have found that will relieve her. I think it is as necessary in the household as a life preserver on a steamboat.

The Democrats now propose a busy Bitter—Boles and Blackburn. Boles was a Republican until a few years ago, Blackburn never had sense enough to be a Republican. He is the man who proposed to fight the late war with bowie knives, and went so far, we believe, as to borrow a knife for the purpose of doing his share of the slaughter. But although he spoke bowie knives as "Hamlet" proposed to speak daggers to his mother, he used none. [Ex.

Electric Bitters.
Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at Williams & Bell's Drug Store.

Gold or Silver—Which?
Shall this country stick to the gold standard or shall it drop to the silver basis? Recent events have made it certain that every voter will have to vote "yes" or "no" on these questions next November. The Republicans will declare for gold, and there is no longer any room for doubt that the Democrats will declare for silver. Some hope was felt until a week or two ago that the Democracy would resist the attacks of fiatism, but this has vanished. A wave of repudiation is sweeping over that party in the West and South. It is a repetition of the greenback deluge of a score of years ago, with this difference, that it has engulfed a far larger proportion of the Democracy than it did then.

The money question, therefore, will come up in the canvass of 1896 with greater sharpness and clearness than it ever did before. There will become interest, of course, in the tariff question, but that must be a subordinate issue if the Chicago convention adopts a silver platform and puts up a silver candidate. If silverism comes up in any such portentous shapes as it at present threatens to take, it will be practically the only issue of the campaign. It will dwarf the tariff as the slavery question did from Texas annexation to the civil war. There will be no settlement for silverism any more than there was for slavery except in its complete and its eternal extinction.

Right at the outset in the canvass the country will be asked whether it will remain with great enlightened nations of the world—with England, France, Germany and the other business countries, great and small—or whether it will join its fortunes to China, India, Mexico and the peoples of a lower grade of intelligence and civilization. To this complexion the financial issue comes at last. The first mentioned group have the gold standard; the second group are on the silver basis. Gold standard nations use silver coin, though this fills only a subordinate position; the silver standard countries have silver only, and this is only a small ratio in proportion to population. Enlightenment, progress, prosperity and all the conditions which make life worth living are in the former group, and their antithesis are in the latter. If the silver conspirators gain control of the Democracy and work their will in the Chicago Convention, 1896's canvass will be the most exciting and important which the country has had since 1860.—[Globe-Democrat.

Marvelous Results.
From a letter written by Rev. J. Gundersman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the baptist church at River Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding LaGrippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Williams and Bell's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

The Girl of Sixteen.
The girl of sixteen is simply a promise of the future. He is before her, with her character and aspirations yet to be formed. If her mother is a wise woman she devotes a great deal of thought to this fledgling of her brood and feels her own responsibility. The future life of her sixteen-year-old girl may be embittered by neglect at this period, when her character is forming. Now, above all things, her mother knows she should keep her daughter's confidence and be her best and most confident, as well as her adviser in all material matters. The average girl at this age is hardly what poets have pictured sweet sixteen, nor is it universally true, as a philosopher has remarked, that women are universally charming at "that period of life, when the average man reaches the height of awkwardness and detestability." The girl of sixteen is likely to be awkward. Her feet and hands, which grow first, are usually too large for her undeveloped figure. A few girls are unfortunate enough to cooity, the higher the race the slower the child reaches maturity. The folly becomes evident of forcing a child of sixteen into society and burdening her with those responsibilities which belong to mature years. Formerly young women were far beyond young men of the same age, because they were forced forward as soon as they were considered "old enough to compete in the matrimonial market." No time was to be lost, our over-purulent forefathers believed, and the cares of a woman of twenty-five were thrust upon the girl in her teens. She was expected to acquire "a little music, a little Italian, a little skimming of belles-lettres" and she was ready for the matrimonial market. If a college training did nothing else for a woman it would be of incalculable value in increasing the years of her girlhood, allowing her time to develop naturally in mind and body before the cares of a home were thrust upon her. The old-fashioned girl matured early and faded early. Before she was thirty she was considered passe, and at forty she was ready to retire to the chimney corner with cap and knitting needles. A college training adds more than ten years to a woman's youthful life by keeping away the responsibilities of society four years, and giving her these four years to develop mentally and physically before she is called to the battle of life.—[New York Tribune.

Per Capita Reduction.
Mr. Davidson the Superintendent of Public Instruction, says that while there has been no official correspondence on the subject, that a tacit understanding has been reached by himself, the Auditor and others that this year's school fund deficit shall be made up in full out of future funds, and that all schools and teachers will get the full amount contracted for and promised for this year. This will be good news to many teachers who feared a curtailing of the school terms, and the loss of a month or so's salary.

The Superintendent, however, like everyone else now foresees a big reduction in per capita to be fixed for the next school year. It will probably be from $2.80 per capita to as low as $2.25. The report of census takers are now coming in and enough have been received to show that there will be an increase, if a small one, in the number of school children reported, as compared with last year's report of 727,723. This fact in connection with the reduced revenue for school, as well as other purposes, and in fact that something like $175,000 must be taken from it to make up the present deficit just referred to, will easily cause the big per capita reduction.

Besides this the schools are bound to be more expensive next year, as the attendance in all public schools will be larger on account of the new Compulsory Educational law.

Good Health
And a good appetite go hand in hand. With the loss of appetite, the system cannot long sustain itself. Thus the fortifications of good health are broken down and the system is liable to attacks of disease. It is in such cases that the medical powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla testify to its great merit as a purifier of the blood, its power to restore and sharpen the appetite and promote a healthy action of the digestive organs. This it is, not what we say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story and constitutes the strongest recommendation that can be urged for any medicine. Why not take Hood's Sarsaparilla now?

Jerry Porter in Politics.
Speaking of the drummer in politics, I came mighty near getting into politics myself—in Kentucky. I played 'em from the trenches to the mountain top, from the cellar to the garret, and I had Gov. Bradley ordered out the militia and I came home. And I've just been thinking whether I'd continue to drum and stand at least some chance of going to heaven when I die, or go into politics and go to hell, sure as the world! I don't like politics! I don't like to follow any business in this world that requires me to stick a knife in the back of my best friend and ask him to stand and bleed, while I go and kiss an enemy on the front tooth to get his vote!

I was in politics eight months, and I walked over eight thousand miles taking fellows aside to whisper something to them—and I never told two men the same thing. I never was honest a day with myself or any other man—and I whispered so much I almost lost my voice; and I got so I'd call her to one side and whisper to her. I even wore gum shoes, until toward the last, when I got nothing and had to go barefooted. And if I never get to be Senator from Kentucky, the black dove of disappointment will never hover over the mound of earth, where the dog-fennel and smart weeds and pennyroyal are growing about my forgotten tomb. Because I never did expect it! It was only a joke the drummers of America and Populist Poor played on the Kentucky Legislature. [From speech before Drummers' Convention at Terre Haute, Ind.

GIVING HIS WHOLE CASE AWAY
Mr. Crisp Admits That Gold Is the Standard of Value.
In his Atlanta debate with Secretary Smith ex-Speaker Crisp attempted to answer the objection of the sound money advocates against the 50 cent dollar by saying: "I tell you, my friends, that I do not want the free and unlimited coinage of silver unless the bullion in a silver dollar is 'worth as much as the bullion in a gold dollar. All this rot about cheap money is a subterfuge of those who are interested in maintaining the dearest kind of money." Mr. Crisp has for years been clamoring for free silver on the ground that gold has increased in value and is too scarce and dear to serve as money, and has urged the necessity of having "cheaper money for the people" as against dear money for the bankers. Yet he now says that he only wants free coinage under the condition that the bullion in a silver dollar shall be worth a dollar in gold. That is exactly what Thomas Jefferson favored when he advised that the ratio between gold and silver be fixed as nearly as possible at the commercial value of the two metals. It is what the believers in an honest dollar have always insisted on. A free coinage law which should put 100 cents' worth of silver in each dollar would not injuriously affect our present sound financial system.

But what becomes of Mr. Crisp's promise that under free silver the people would have cheap money? If a gold dollar is too dear to be used to measure values, how would a silver dollar which is worth just as much be any cheaper? The commercial value of silver is now about thirty to one. If Mr. Crisp is honest in saying that he wants the bullion in a silver dollar to be worth as much as the bullion in a gold dollar, he would have to coin the two metals in a thirty to one ratio. How would that shatter the hated money power?

Mr. Crisp warned his Atlanta hearers against the people who are interested in maintaining the dearest kind of money. When he talks of coining silver dollars with a bullion value equal to a gold dollar, does he not admit that gold is the standard and that he wants to have our silver money just as valuable as gold?

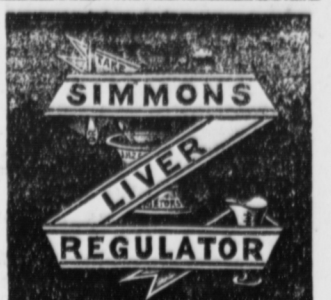

M'CLEARY'S SPEECH.
Demolishes Free Coinage Fallacies—Facts About Prices.

The Congressional Record of March 27 contains a speech by J. T. McCleary, of Minnesota, "against unrestricted coinage of silver," which is the most thorough, entertaining and convincing discussion of the silver question we have seen. Every aspect of the question is presented. Every argument of the honest believer in free coinage is patiently examined and demolished. The vice of the free coinage advocate, it is shown, is that he picks his facts, ignoring such as do not favor his argument. He does not see the whole truth, but only so much of it as suits his purpose. The silverite begins usually with the statement that there has been a ruinous fall of prices, beginning with 1873, when silver dollars were excluded from free coinage, and that the decline of prices was due to the exclusion of silver. But if he would consider the history of prices before 1873 he would find that the recent decline began in 1855. The fall between 1855 and 1873 was larger than between 1873 and the present time, though the mint was then open to silver. But this was not the first period of low prices during the present century. In the period from 1815 to 1822, while the mint was open to silver, there was a fall in average prices practically the same as that which has taken place since 1873.

The price of silver before 1873 did not decline along with that of other commodities, as it has done since 1873. Silver was not then their faithful companion, but held itself aloof from the general tumble. Between 1800 and 1805 there was a tremendous fall, followed by a tremendous rise of prices of commodities, but silver hardly varied. And there is not now—more than before 1873—any connection between the price of silver and the price of other things.

The decline of prices has not, however, been universal. It has been large in articles worked by machinery, as textiles, minerals, manufactures, etc., but it has not been large, as a rule, in products of agriculture, tropical products, animal and fish products, etc. The reduction of transportation rates has lowered the price of wheat phenomenally at the points of consumption, as in the east and in England, but the price obtained by the farmer of the northwest has not been materially changed. Beef, butter, eggs and similar articles have not followed the downward course of silver, even at points of consumption. There is one commodity which is dealt in, bought and sold, more universally and in greater volume, it may be said, than all others put together—labor. If it has not fallen in price, it is folly to say that there has been a general fall of prices—due to the demonization of silver. And it has not fallen. On the contrary, wages have advanced, and the wages of 1890, with silver demonized, exceeded by 50 per cent. the "bi-metallic" wages of 1860. In purchasing power the wages of to-day exceed those of the earlier period by 75 per cent.

Much is made by silverites of French bimetalism, but Mr. McCleary shows that France did not, by her law of 1803, as a matter of fact, "suspend for 70 years her legal ratio of fifteen and one-half to one" as the commercial ratio of the world. The price fluctuated, notwithstanding the law. Nor did France ever have the concurrent circulation of silver and gold. From 1820 to 1850 France had only silver, and from 1850 to 1885 only gold coin in circulation. It was not the French legal ratio that kept the commercial ratio near fifteen and one-half to one from 1803 to 1873. In concluding his telling speech Mr. McCleary, himself a protectionist, denounced the Pennsylvania protectionists who are going in for the free coinage of silver because they may thus reduce American wages to the level in Mexico, Japan and other countries on the silver basis.—Baltimore Sun.

ELECTION NOV. 3. 1896.

For Congress,
HON. JNO. W. LEWIS.

The United Confederate Reunion will be held at Richmond, Va., on the 30th of this month and continue for three days.

REPORTS come from different parts of the county that the corn and wheat crops are very much damaged by the continued wet weather.

G. P. Thomas will be the next Congressman from the 1st District; E. T. Franks from the 2d and W. G. Hunter from the 3d—[Hopkinsville Banner.]

And Jno. W. Lewis from the 4th.

THE thought of the Hon. Henry Watterson enjoying the society of the French Capital, surely fills with envy the breasts of a host of sound money men who call themselves Democrats.

HON. JOHN W. LEWIS has endeared himself to the people of his District irrespective of party affiliations. Many are anxious to express their esteem for him by returning him to the halls of Congress.

SENATOR Blackburn in speaking at Lexington said to the sound money men: "You tried this thing for twenty years and made a failure." Certainly they have made a failure, and Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn is a stupendous failure along with the rest of them.

As Mr. Gustavus Brown, of Breckinridge county, was made elector for the Fourth Congressional District by the Democratic-Populist Convention at Lexington, Hon. J. S. R. Wedding now knows whom he has to meet on the raging stump. What Mr. Wedding will do for Gustavus will be a plenty.

A most noticeable feature of the Democratic party is its tendency to advocate principals that are harmful to the public weal. Witness the disastrous result of Democratic tariff laws; the Democratic idea of the free and unlimited coinage of silver is a dangerous idea, and would plunge the country into untold suffering if carried into effect.

WHAT boots it whether there be free silver or no silver at all, when the laboring man can obtain no employment by which to earn it? The Wilson Bill has destroyed confidence in the business world, has resulted in the suspension of many industries, and has thereby created "hard times." A panacea for all these evils can be found in protective tariff laws of the same sort as the McKinley Bill.

JUDGING from the way Blackburn, Hardin, Vest and other prominent Democrats are talking, there is to be a new party unless they can rule the Democratic party. Sound money Democrats hoot at the idea, and decide such a proposition. But were not these gentlemen and others once the best of Democrats? Certainly so. All of which goes to show that the Democratic party all along has been built of rotten timber. No wonder, is it, that the old party is ramshackle?

WE have no voice in the selection of the Democratic nominee for President. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, we shall use what influence we can for Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn. Our reason for supporting Mr. Blackburn is two fold. First, there is the matter of State pride. Mr. Blackburn is a Kentuckian. We are for him. Secondly, he is the weakest brother the Democrats could put up, and he would go down in history as the worst beater man who ever ran for President. We are for him because there is no possible chance of his election.

As has been predicted all along in these columns, J. G. Carlisle could not possibly carry his own State. Events have upheld us in our prediction. The State has gone into the free silver camp, body and breeches. Sound money men have claimed that as Kentucky acted, so would the National Convention act, as Kentucky has acted very badly—that is to say as she has gone for free silver—so will the National Convention at Chicago act badly, and declare for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. It must be remembered that such men as Algeld, Tillman, Blackburn, Waite and Penoyer all stand for disorder, dishonor and repudiation, are leaders of the free silver element.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Not Cough Syrup. Cures Croup. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

THE Kentucky Distillers are seriously considering the question of closing down for eighteen months.

THE great National Convention of the Republican party will meet at St. Louis next Tuesday, at which time the next President of the United States will be named. The platform will without doubt be for the gold standard, and with a divided Democracy the Republicans will march into the White House without a struggle.

THE bicycle craze has subsided through rural districts. In the most of the districts the roads are too rough for satisfactory wheeling. Hence the purchase of a wheel is an extravagant expenditure of money. That this fact is being realized, is right. The American people are entirely to extravagant, and their disposition to bite at every fad, accounts in some measure for hard times. The Democratic party is responsible for all the rest.

"BAB," who writes for the Courier-Journal weekly, has made a vigorous attack on the shirt waist now universally worn by the women. Whilst "Bab" writes entertainingly and instructively at times, at other times she fills a column or two with the merest twaddle. This attack she has made on the shirt waist—than which there is not a neater, jauntier, or more comfortable garment—is as weak a production as ever came from her ready pen. Bab is oftentimes erratic.

WHILE it is to the interest of Black-burnism that the Democratic party fly into flinders, yet it is enough to bring the blush of shame to the cheek of every Republican, when they see such men as Carlisle, Lindsay, Buckner and Watterson condemned by Kentuckians, and such men as Blackburn, Bronston and Jack Chion, held up as bright and shining lights; as eminent statesmen and the men in whose hands the destiny of the nation should be placed. It is enough, we say, to make even a Republican blush for shame.

HON. JOHN W. LEWIS.
Republicans should remember that they have already nominated a candidate for Congress in the Fourth Congressional District.

Recognizing the valiant and victorious fight of Hon. John W. Lewis, against the enemy in 1894, and his most excellent record in Congress, the convention at Hodgenville re-nominated him by acclamation.

It can be said of Mr. Lewis that he has made a most able representative, devoting his undivided time and talent to the interest of his constituents. Whilst other gentlemen—Kentucky gentlemen—in Congress, have galloped over the country and state, attending to their political fence, and keeping or trying to keep same in repairs, Mr. Lewis has remained constantly at his post. But it is not necessary for friends to arise and speak of the worth and merit of our distinguished Representative. Figures speak loudly for him, showing conclusively that his labors have resulted in good of a most substantial sort, to his district.

He has obtained a good appropriation for the improvement of Rough River. Still more he has obtained an appropriation for a public building at Lebanon.

The appropriations will result in untold benefits—that for the improvement of Rough River especially—to the people of the Fourth District. A Democratic President has seen fit to veto the bill in which the appropriations are included, but Mr. Lewis is entitled to the same credit. Mr. Lewis is not responsible for the act of Mr. Cleveland nor the U. S. Senate.

His work is confined to the House, and there we find he has worked for and in the interest of his constituents as no other Representative from this district has ever done. In view of his valuable service, it is the duty of the people to endorse him by re-election. There can be no doubt that he will receive many Democratic votes next fall. His election depends entirely on the action of his own party. If the Republican party begins at once and creates a good live organization throughout the district, which it will do, then there can be no doubt of the result.

Mr. Lewis will again be returned to the place he has filled with so much credit to himself. But let there be no rest from the labor upon the part of Republicans. The victory is always to the brave and industrious. A coward never wins, and a lazy man can be caught napping. Therefore, let every Republican feel that he is personally and directly interested in Mr. Lewis' triumph in November. With enthusiasm among us, and the good principals of the Republican party to uphold us, we can again carry Mr. Lewis to victory over the head of all opposition.

The Jubilee.

Last Saturday was the great Farmer's Jubilee at Beaver Dam. Extensive preparations had been made for the occasion and all who were there were royally entertained. Early in the morning the people began to come in from every direction, and by noon there were thousands in attendance. Mr. Monroe delivered the welcome address; prayer by Rev. Wilson. Prof. Ray, Mr. H. P. Taylor and others entertained the vast assemblage with appropriate speeches. At night the entertainment was largely attended and was a decided success.

After a Horse Theft.

One night last week a stranger went to the premises of Mr. A. D. Stuart, near Bada, Ohio county, and stole Mr. Stuart's saddle and best farm horse. He came to this county, in the Red Hill neighborhood, and traded the horse to a colored man named Wm. Norris for another horse and $5 in cash. Mr. Stuart and Mr. Paris trailed the horse to Norris' and recovered it. They are still endeavoring to catch the thief so as to recover Mr. Stuart's saddle and Norris' horse.

The fellow is described as of medium height, dark complexion, black hair, small, black mustache, about 35 years of age, and wore a miner's cap. When last seen was in this county, near Red Hill, and he was making his way toward this city.

He went to Stuart's on the afternoon before taking the horse and frightened Mrs. Stuart very much by questioning her as to whether she were alone or not, and if there were any men about the premises.—[Owensboro Tribune.]

Robt. Stewart Dead.

Last Sunday evening at his home near Beaver Dam, Mr. Robt. Stewart was killed by a mule, while he was watering his stock. He only lived about 24 hours after the accident. He was one of the best citizens of the county and will be greatly missed in his community. The remains were interred in the Burnett's Creek Church Cemetery Tuesday in the presence of a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives.

OUR SCHOOL.

A Few Suggestions in Regard to Same.

CITIZENS SHOULD ACT AT ONCE.

Our people are awakening to the fact that something must be done to maintain the reputation of our town as an educational center. As the matter stands, we are now threatened with only a plain five months common school and 'tis questionable whether our College building can be used to teach it in. Many citizens say it can't and claim that a common school building will have to be erected. If this must be done why not erect two buildings and divide the district, as there are two many pupils for one school and it would be more convenient for the pupils to have two houses in different parts of the town.

The foregoing are murmurings and utterances we hear on the streets every day and 'tis true we are in rather a dilemma, but our people are not going to lie still and consent to have only a plain five months common school, but will find a way to keep up our reputation. To accomplish this, many of our citizens think that we should accept the provision of the Graded Common School Law, vote a tax of not more than 50c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property and a capitation tax not to exceed $1.50 for purpose of maintaining said school and extending the term to ten months. Many of our citizens say 25c on each 100 and $1.50 capitation tax will be sufficient, but as buildings and furniture must always be kept in repair many say the amount ought to be 37 1/2c ad valorem and $1.50 capitation tax. The latter named amount would no doubt be sufficient to keep up all repairs and with our common school fund easily maintain a graded school for ten months in each year.

Under the law we can vote this tax for three years and then if we don't like it we can make a change. Again, if we accept the provisions of the law we will elect six trustees and said trustees may prescribe the branches (other than those required by law to be taught in the common schools) WHICH MAY BE TAUGHT IN SAID GRADED SCHOOL. This being a fact they may name a course of study that will again give us a College course and place us again in the foremost ranks as an educational town.

We citizens must get together and do something and that quickly so as to be ready for our fall term. Who will take the lead? Will our present trustees not formulate some plan or at least call our people together, give an account of their stewardship, report on financial condition of our school and the prospects for the future, &c., &c. Let us wake up and take some action in the matter and not let time for opening school slip in on us without anything having been done.

The writer does not mean to dictate what tax shall or shall not be voted, but noticing the uneasiness or unrestfulness of our citizens concerning the matter and knowing that all would be pleased to know what we are to have in the future in the school line, he offers this to all interested for what it may be worth.

With the blood full of humors, the heated term is all the more oppressive. Give the system a thorough cleansing with Ayer's Sarsaparilla and a dose or two of Ayer's Pills, and you will enjoy Summer as never before in your life. Just try this for once, and you'll not regret it.

Mrs. Dozier Evans is very low at this writing.

Mrs. Katie Llewellyn is also on the sick list.

Last Saturday the hottest election ever held at this school district for trustee took place as a result of Attorney B. L. Kelly slipping in and trying to have his trustees elected. Coming in as he did just on the eve of the election and soliciting and getting votes somehow after knowing the school had been under promise by the patrons for two months. This may be good righteous action for a lawyer, but we hardly think proper in a teacher. We are glad to say that the good people of the district turned him down.

Messrs. John Moorman and Frank Fielden went to Hartford Wednesday and were qualified as trustees.

SCHEME TO LOWER WAGES.

The following is the suggestive heading of an article in the Sun of Lexington, Ky:

TO LOWER WAGES.

Scheme to Reduce the Pay of Laborers Without Strikes and Lockouts.

DEFERENTIATE THE MONEY WITH WHICH THEY ARE PAID AND THE RESULT IS OBTAINED.

The People Who Buy Things.

There is one class of people in the United States which is specially interested in the agitation for free silver, with its openly avowed purpose of raising prices twice as high as they are now. This is the consuming class, composed of all the people who buy things. To them the most important question in regard to the currency is: "Will our money buy few or many things? We now have an industrial and commercial system in which wages are paid and products bought and sold with a currency which rests on a gold standard and has a high purchasing power. If we were to adopt the silver standard, our money would buy only half the quantity of goods that it does now. How would this help us, the 70,000,000 American consumers?"

Free-coinage politicians who are trying to gain votes by setting one class of citizens against another would do well to remember that the largest class in this country is that of the people who buy goods. When they catch those people that it is to their interest to pay higher prices for what they consume, they may have some show of success. Until then their scheme is doomed to failure.

The free and unlimited coinage of silver is the greatest political swindle of the century, for it gives to the wealthy the power to double their wealth and leaves to the poor man nothing but silver dollars really worth only 50 cents each.—Bueyus Journal.

Largely a Question of Freight.

The principal reason why the highly civilized and commercial nations have gradually abandoned silver and adopted the gold standard is that value for value silver is 30 times as heavy as gold. So that if the cheaper metal were used to settle balances in trading between two countries or between distant points of the same country it would cost 30 times more to transfer it than if payment was made in gold. The foolish idea that business men have conspired to discredit the white metal in order to increase the value of gold is merely a cheap money delusion. Merchants and bankers are interested in having the best possible material for use in measuring values and making exchanges, and the fact that in millions of transactions the handling of money the greater weight of silver meant a larger cost of transporting it was of itself a sufficient reason why gold should be preferred.

Left to themselves, men always choose the easiest-known method of doing anything. Since it is far easier to use a substance having great value in small bulk than one 30 or 40 times heavier, it is only natural that, whenever it is possible to secure sufficient gold, that metal should be used instead of silver. Wood is now generally used instead of steel for bicycle rims because it is lighter. Steelites who should claim that the wood conspirators had demonstrated steel rims would be laughed at. Yet their arguments would be just as sound as those of the silverites.

California Must Remain a Gold State. California was a gold state when it was admitted and has remained a gold state since. None of its debtors has anything to gain by a radical change of standard, not even the banks, which, under a silver standard, would be able to pay all depositors 50 cents on the dollar. The derangement of business and temporary destruction of credit that would result from such a change would probably break most of the banks in California, including the money question. To their credit, be it said, the Courier-Journal and Secretary Carlisle argue the question.—Lexington (Ky.) Sun.

Mass Consider the German Vote.

It may be in this crisis that the Germans will play a specially important role. In the east they are altogether sound upon the silver question, and in the west the preponderance of German sentiment is sound. If the conventions perceive that they will have to reckon with the German vote the influence of that vote will not be lost.—New York Staats-Zeitung.

Willing to Correct Mistakes.

About the only argument the free-silver papers offer in advocating the issuance of fiat money is that Secretary Carlisle and the Courier-Journal have changed their views on the money question. To their credit, be it said, the Courier-Journal and Secretary Carlisle argue the question.—Lexington (Ky.) Sun.

Rev. Robt. Carson who has been attending school at Barbourville for the past ten months, is at his home on No Creek.

Mr. B. A. Winans, of Decatur, Ind., is visiting Mr. T. J. Morton. He and Mr. Morton were classmates at DePaul University last winter. Mr. Winans is highly pleased with our people.

The trustees of the schools throughout the county are having a good time at present employing and refusing teachers. The trustees of Beech Valley have employed their teacher, so they have informed us.

Mr. Alex Brown, of the Pond Run country, died Sunday of flux and was buried Monday at the home burying ground. He was one of the oldest and best citizens of the county and was loved and respected by all who knew him.

Life Insurance is a great thing. It protects your family after you have left this world of sin and sorrow, and goes to join the realm and sing anthems in the world above. Mr. Robt. H. Stewart, of Beaver Dam, who died Tuesday carried a life policy in the United States Life Insurance Co., which had only been in force since August 17, 1895. Mr. S. R. Dent, the gentlemanly and accommodating District Manager of the above mentioned Company, is now at Beaver Dam to fix up the claim and his beneficiaries will receive a check in a few days for the full amount of the policy. Mr. Dent has written more insurance in Ohio county perhaps than any other agent. He is always kind, obliging, courteous and it is really a pleasure to do business with him. Mr. Dent's success is greatly due to the methods of his Company, who pay as soon as a claim has been properly proven, no delay, no fooling away time about them, but prompt in all transactions.

Miss Gilla Pierce Dead.

The many friends of Miss Gilla Pierce at this place were greatly shocked last Saturday to hear of her death, at her home in McLean county of congestive chills. It had only been a few days since she left Hartford College where she had prepared herself for the duties of life, and her sudden taking away is a great shock to her parents and many friends. She was a bright, intelligent young lady and had many friends in school.

FRIDAY, JUNE 12, 1896.

Ablaze With Erysipelas

There is no disease of the blood which so completely puzzles the doctors as Erysipelas. They admit that it is a blood trouble, but like other such diseases, they are unable to effect a cure.

It is not surprising that those who are afflicted with this distressing disease should suffer from untold agonies. Like a consuming flame, it covers the skin with a fiery, burning redness which is almost unbearable, and only those who have been so afflicted can describe its tortures.

Aside from the suffering which Erysipelas causes, there is always great danger attending the disease, unless promptly checked. The inflammation spreads through the tissues of the skin and, when a vital part is attacked, the result is disastrous. Often the bones are affected, and become so diseased that they crumble away, leaving the patient an invalid for life.

Here is a case, where the doctors were unable to afford relief, and strongly urged an operation.

Miss Ada Wainwright is a most estimable young lady, residing at Alamo, Tenn. After being married, she writes, she was constantly for three years and declared incurable, she saw before her only the gloomy life of an invalid. Under date of March, 1894, she writes, "I feel it my duty to inform you of the great good I have received from your remedy, S. S. S., for I am sure that it saved my life. For three years

MISS ADA WAINWRIGHT. I have suffered agonies with bone erysipelas, and though under treatment of the best physicians, I found no relief. One of my limbs was so swollen and inflamed that the doctors found it necessary to keep it lanced, and the bone became so diseased that several pieces were discharged through the opening. It is impossible to describe the suffering I had to endure; sometimes able to hop around on crutches, and again unable to turn myself in bed. I was so reduced in health that I weighed only eighty pounds.

"After lingering for three years, having been treated by four doctors, I was finally told that I was incurable, and that I would have to submit to the painful operation of having the bone scraped, or it would be necessary to amputate the limb. This I positively refused to submit to.

"A friend recommended S. S. S., knowing of its wonderful reputation as a blood remedy, and when I had finished one bottle I felt an improvement. I grew better as I continued the medicine, and after taking six bottles I was entirely well, my skin was clear and pure, and I have no signs of the terrible disease. I gained in health and strength until I now weigh 130 pounds, and all my relatives and friends are astonished at the wonderful cure made by S. S. S."

The above is but one of the many wonderful cures being made daily by S. S. S. Experience has shown that the doctors are absolutely unable to cure diseases of the blood, and of the many blood remedies offered to the public to-day, S. S. S. is the only one which cures obstinate and deep-seated cases. For real blood troubles, S. S. S. has no equal. It wipes out completely the most obstinate cases of blood diseases, which other remedies do not seem to touch. S. S. S. gets at the root of the disease, and forces it out permanently. S. S. S. is guaranteed.

GOD KNOWS IT ALL.

God knows it all, our pain and tears, That by the world are all unknown, What though the joys of life are flown, And though we seem to be alone, And hear it silent through the years, God knows it all, our pain and tears.

God knows it all, our little cares, The burdens that we bear, the way Oft rough and hard, the times we pray So weary, for a brighter day, God knows it all, our pain and tears.

God knows it all, the broken heart, That lost the things it loved, and cried In bitterness, the hopes that died When scarcely born, the breast that ached For comfort and for love's sweet part, God knows it all, the broken heart.

God knows it all, O trust and rest, He loves and watches over these, Thou canst not in thy blindness see How near thy Lord must ever be; Wait patiently and do thy best, God knows it all, O trust and rest.

AGAINST ODDS.

A Gallant and Victorious Dash at the Apaches.

He had come out of Fort Wallace, bound for Camp Supply, with a train of 30 wagons. There were only 60 troopers to escort the train—60 troopers and the country full of war parties raiding back and forth and flushed with their victories over the stage stations and isolated settlements. At high noon, as we halted for half an hour's rest and to close up the train, fully 400 Indians were in sight from every wagon. Horses were unsaddled, rubbed down and given a bite to eat before the saddles served out, firearms overhauled, and the pale-faced teamsters warned that they must fight or be wiped out.

We are ready half an hour after 12 o'clock. We must give the Apaches a lesson in manners. We had been waiting until the train should reach a favorable location. The moment had come. On this ground the teamsters could take care of it with ten troopers to guide and direct, and that left 50 of us to act. The word was quietly passed down the line, each man prepared himself, and at a note from the bugle a wonderful change took place. Our captain wheeled with 29 men, and charged to the rear; our single lieutenant wheeled to the left with ten men; a sergeant charged straight ahead with ten more. I took nine others and wheeled to the right and rode straight at a body of 80 Indians bunched on a knoll just out of rifle-shot.

"Right wheel—steady now—forward, trot, gallop—charge!"

Ten to eighty! Eight to one! Odds enough to prove our metal and make it exciting. Every trooper in every squadron was cheering as he rode. His carbine was strapped to his back and his saber was held aloft in his right hand.

"Rush 'em, boys—drive right into 'em—make a hole in the bunch!"

Our plan had been executed so swiftly that the reds were dumfounded. Only three or four shots were fired at us as we charged, and the whole band sat there gazing at us with awful crash—ten of us in single rank, and as our sabers began to flash the Indians thought only of getting out of reach. We had them flying in two minutes, and the order was, in case they took to flight, to keep together and run them for a couple of miles, using our carbines on their backs.

I had a light horse, not much larger than an Indian pony. He struck and knocked over two other ponies, and as I cut a warrior down with my saber my horse pitched ground. I was stunned, but remember that two or three horses stepped on me as the Indians drew out and took to flight. When I struggled to a sitting position it was to find myself almost helpless. My right shoulder was broken, my back severely injured and my legs felt numb. I was in a hollow, from which I could not see the wagons, but could hear the fighting going on in all directions.

To the right of me was a dead warrior; to the left a second; further to the left a dead pony; to the right a wounded one; directly in front of me and 20 feet away was a redskin, kicking and struggling. I had just gotten a rest on my left elbow when he sat up. The right side of his head was all bloody from a saber cut which had shaved of an ear, but this would have been a trifle to him. He must have been dismounted as I was, and had also been trodden upon. His right arm hung limp and his back was broken. He fell back as he tried to sit up, and rolling over half way, his eyes looked straight into mine.

Talk of the fury in the eyes of a tiger brought to bay, of a lion crippled and waiting to strike a dying blow, of the fibres of hell burning in the eyes of a mastiff attacked with hydrophobia and impatient to destroy! The face of that Indian was the face of a demon fresh from the confines of Hades. The hate in his eyes made the blood chill. The desire for vengeance burned out like a blaze on a hilltop at midnight.

I felt for my revolver with my left hand. It was in the holster of my saddle. My carbine was at my back, but I could not get it, injured as I was, and the slightest movement gave me the most excruciating pain. Was he armed? Yes! I saw his left hand go down and seize the handle of his tomahawk, and as he raised it he tried to utter a shout of vengeance. He could not sit up and his right arm was helpless, but, shutting his teeth tightly together to force back the pain, he waved the tomahawk three or four times to get an impetus, and then flung it at me. It passed over me and sunk into the earth.

Had he any other weapon? He lay back, throw, and his eyes glared into mine, while the blood oozed from his wound and ran down his throat and back.

Hatred! Vengeance! Fury! Hope! Despair! I read each feeling as it passed through his heart—read it from the eyes which burned and glistened and blazed until I grew faint at their malignity.

Then he moved his arm again and brought up a knife—a long, thin knife, which the lightest blow would drive to a man's heart. It flashed and glistened in the sun, and my flesh crept as the red devil, wounded unto death and almost helpless, reached out, laid the knife on the ground, and then sought to clutch the soil and drag his body toward me. An inch—two inches—three—five—ten—a foot. If he can have time he will pull himself across that space to within striking distance, and drive that knife into me!

He reaches out again—he groans in pain—his fingers dig up the dirt—his eyes blood-red as he calls up his thirst for vengeance to help his muscles perform their work. Another inch—six inches—another foot! I feel the ground around me again as far as I can. No weapon—nothing to stop his advances!

Once more he reaches out and deposits the knife—the black fingers sink into the soil and find a hole—the powerful muscles of a single arm pull his crippled body along inch by inch—inch by inch! There's a brighter blaze in his eyes—additional fury creeps into that steady glare. He has been wounded unto death, but he can kill me he will die without a regret—aye, with a shout of exultation on his lips.

Inch by inch—coming, coming—nearer, nearer! Two feet more and he can reach me and stab and thrust with that knife. But, suddenly I notice that the firing has ceased. I hear the hoofbeats of galloping horses, and now a half-dozen troopers ride up, and one of them calls out: "Bless my stars, but here's our sergeant! Hello, old boy, catch a bullet! Down boys, and look after him, and I'll just put an ounce ball into the head of this red devil who's been picking his teeth with his hunting-knife. Stand clear a minute, boys! One, two, three—gone to luncheon, to fool no more with wagon trains!"—Detroit Free Press.

The Earth's Possible Moons.

The opinion is attributed to some astronomers that it is possible for the earth, under certain circumstances, to capture as satellites some of the roving meteoric bodies known to be so numerous in space instead of bringing them to the surface as aerolites, and that, as these bodies are too small to be seen—a mass of 100 tons being invisible at 800 or 1,000 miles when brightly lighted—the earth may be attended by hundreds of invisible moons. Sir J. Herschel is cited as even of the opinion that there may be large enough to be visible.

able for brief intervals when beyond the earth's shadow, and Sir John Lubbock has actually supplied formulae for calculating the distances from observations of this kind. M. Pettit, also, director of the observatory at Toulouse, is quoted as having been led by the observation and calculation to conclude that the earth is attended by at least one meteoric stone of considerable size—one about 28 times nearer than the moon—its orbit being 5,000 miles from the earth's surface, the tiny moon revolving round the earth in three hours and 20 minutes.—N. A Tongue-Twister.

Try it yourself, very slowly and carefully, until you can say it easily. Then pass it along to your friends. Here it is:

"She stood at the gate, welcoming him in."

Ten to one a person trying to pronounce the sentence for the first time will fumble it laughably. These tongue-twisting sentences, however, are good cleverness exercises. They give you control of your vocal organs, so that you can enunciate properly, just as finger exercises on the piano or organ give control of the fingers.

What an immense amount of mechanical practice does it require to establish anything like a close sympathy between the brain and the physical organs!—Philadelphia Record.

All the Same to Him.

"How is your little sister, Robbie?"

"She's getting well, she's taking cod-liver oil milk." And he marched off, proud of having accomplished such a big word, for sterilized or celluloid was all one to this little man of five.

The Editor's Fatal Dream.
He dreamed! Sweet smiles wreathed his face, but behind the smiles one could easily detect the lines of worry and discontentment. Anyhow he seemed happy. The dreamer was an editor of a county paper in Arkansas. It is not known how long the poor fellow was made happy by the imaginary panorama or by golden, but unreal, thoughts superinduced by his visit to dreamland, but one thing is known, and that is that the dream proved fatal. He was found that evening hanging at the end of a rope in the coal shed, and the following letter to his subscribers was found in his pocket, which explains the dream:

"TO MY SUBSCRIBERS:—Disappointment is the cause of this rash act I dreamed! I thought you fellows were pouring into the printing office at every door; even climbing in the windows, and were paying up your subscriptions. Never saw as much money in my life as I saw in this dream. I don't know why I dreamed such a thing; for I'll swear that I never entertained such thoughts. When I awoke my hopes were 'peeled.' The disappointment is too great, and I have decided to end my existence. Don't think these accounts are exaggerated. Ah, no, I'll meet some of you in eternity. Fare-thee well." "JIM B."

—Dr. C. C. Cowen, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quick nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opiates, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
—Dr. J. F. Richardson, Conway, Ark.

"Our physicians in the children's department had spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to admit that the merits of Castoria has won us to back with favor upon it."
—UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
